

Professor Christopher Malinowski

Professor Christopher Malinowski has been instructing at LIU Post since 2000. Prior to his tenure with LIU Post, he worked with the New York City Police Department in their MIS Division in Production Support, Systems Programming and ended his career as the Commanding Officer of the Computer Investigations and Technology Unit. He has lectured as an adjunct for the University of New Haven, CUNY and also for the National District Attorney's Association on topics ranging from programming and networking to security.